One-on-One Interview
Coaching for Success

NEW PROGRAM

This new program is designed to support government employees in winning a job competition process, and as such it will be customized to meet your own needs. Anyone who is looking to strengthen and polish both their interview skills and resumé will benefit from the program.

About the program

The world of interviews is a challenging one at best. This one-on-one program is designed to meet your specific needs so you can be the successful candidate on your next interview and competition process. As such, you will have the opportunity to customize your program based on the position being sought and your career goals, through an initial confidential session with the facilitator.

What is included

Key components of the program involve:

- the review of your resumé to ensure that it positions your skills, accomplishments and knowledge to the best possible light
- acquainting yourself with current interview techniques, strategies and tactics to put your best foot forward
- a mock-up interview session to practice your interview skills
- important feedback from the facilitator, who will be working with you to maximize your confidence

Highlights of the program

- Difference between behavioural and analytical interview questions
- Techniques to provide thoughtful interview responses
- Opportunity to rehearse interview questions and receive valuable feedback
- Strategies to avoid falling into common traps
- Best resume format and approach for the desired position
- Language that positively portrays your accomplishments

In-person sessions, meetings, coaching over the telephone, and email exchanges are collectively used to facilitate ongoing interaction and assignments between you and the facilitator to develop your skills and to ensure that you are fully equipped and ready to ace the interview!
